

National Orthopaedic Alliance

Update

As a founding member organisation of the National Orthopaedic Alliance (NOA), RNOH is part of a network of orthopaedic providers working to shape the future of orthopaedics. The NOA is multidisciplinary and leads on collaboration across all orthopaedic services by providing opportunities for members to share experiences and address shared challenges with an aim of delivering consistent, high quality care for patients nationwide.

Over the last year RNOH has contributed to much of NOA's work. From helping to launch the Orthopaedic Quality Improvement and Clinical Audit Network (OQICAN) and leading sessions at the Alliance's first ever Annual Members' Conference to presenting on its COVID-19 orthopaedic recovery webinar series and contributing to the NOA blog. We play a key role in the Alliance's success and look forward to continuing to contribute to this work.
